Plan Carnival For Servicemen

Three-Day Carnival To Raise Funds For Gifts
To 600 Local Service Men

One of the most interesting plans for keeping up the morale of Andover's 600-odd men in service received its first development last Thursday evening, when a group of representatives of local civic and service groups met to plan a three-day carnival on the week-end of Columbus Day. At least six different activities are planned for that week-end. Some of the proceeds will go towards the purchase of Christmas gifts for each Andover man in uniform. The remainder of the funds raised will be turned over to the committee on finances and the treasurer, to be used for other purposes benefiting the boys in service from time to time.

The meeting was called by John M. Erving of Salem street, who was unanimously elected general chairman of the committee on arrange-

Public Schools To Reopen Wednesday

Start New Year With Public Flag-Raising

The local public schools will reopen Wednesday morning at the usual hours. The high and junior high school sessions will begin at 8:15, dismissing at 2:00, and the elementary grades from 9:00 to 12:00 and 1:15 to 3:15.

A few changes may be noted in this year's teaching staff. In the high school, Frederick Riel of South Deerfield will replace Anton Kishon, who will teach at Phillips Academy. Mr. Riel will coach football and teach biology. James Hart will be transferred from the Junior high school to replace Joseph B. Doherty, who is now serving as an ensign in the U. S. Navy. Mr. Hart will teach physics, chemistry, and aeronautics.

George F. Snyder of Orange will teach social studies, replacing Ralph Sturke, now superintendent of schools in North Reading. Miss Ida Grover will return to a full

Aeronautics Course To Open In Schools

Miss Loomer Elected
To School Committee

Punchard's brand new course in aeronautics will begin next week with the opening of all the local schools. The school committee, at a brief meeting Tuesday night, approved a textbook for the course, "Elements of Aeronautics."

The course will be taught by James Hart, who has just been transferred from the Junior high school to Punchard. Generally speaking, it will be in line with the government's specifications for such a course, and is designed to assist young men who will be going into military or other aviation later.

The principles of mathematics and physics that are directly pertinent to aviation will be taken up, and other studies will include simple aerodynamics, the effects of wind velocity and wing structure, navigation, work with plane models, the parts of a plane, types of maneuvers possible, the etiquette of flying, radio theory and communications, and probably the theory and practice of Morse code.

At Tuesday night's meeting which was attended by the members of the board of selectmen as well as of the school committee, Miss Barbara Loomer of Andover street, Ballardvale, was chosen to

Permits Motoring To Topsfield Fair

In response to an inquiry from the Essex County Agricultural Society, Henry Parkman, Jr., state OPA director, has stated that motorists may attend the Topsfield Fair or any recreational event provided the mileage involved is part of the 90 miles per month of non-occupational driving allowed all holders of basic "A" and supplemental gasoline ration books.

Farmers exhibiting livestock and produce and others showing agricultural products, supplies and related articles are given wide latitude in the use of their trucks and automobiles in connection with the fair because such activities are considered to be an important part of their livelihood.

Fair directors want their patrons to adhere to the letter of the gasoline conservation program and to that end are urging people to share their cars with friends and neighbors and to join the informal "auto clubs" being organized by Granges and other groups.

The Fair will open next Wednesday, for five days, concluding the following Sunday. A championship rodeo with 125 cowboys, cowgirls and Indians and more than 200 head of wild western stock, will be the entertainment feature each afternoon and evening. Special wartime features will include "Food for Freedom" programs, "Victory Gardens", War Bond and salvage drives, civilian defense and air raid precaution exhibits.

M. I. T. Scholarships To Local Residents

Two Andover residents have been awarded freshman competitive scholarships by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, it was announced today.

They are Virginia G. Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Stevens of High Plain road, and Frank R. Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton M. Strong of 8 Stonehedge road. The freshman competitive scholarships are granted annually by the Institute to a group of entering students of high scholastic standing and personal qualifications, selected by competition from several hundred applicants from all parts of the country.

Miss Stevens was salutatorian of this year's class at Punchard high school, and Mr. Strong is a Phillips Academy graduate. Both will enter Technology this fall.

North Andover Clubs Plan Harvest Show

A harvest show sponsored jointly by the North Andover Grange and North Andover Garden club will be staged next Thursday, from 2:00 to 8:30, in a barn belonging to Miss Ruth Ely of 136 Salem street, North Andover. Entries will be judged in eight classes for fruit, vegetables and flowers.

All entries must be sent to Mrs. Everett Pervere, co-chairman, by Saturday, and the exhibits must be staged by 10:30 the following Thursday. Mrs. Abbot Stevens, Mrs. Fred Whittier and Mrs. Pervere are co-chairmen. Mrs. Francis Kittredge is in charge of staging; Mrs. William Russell, publicity; Mrs. L. Joseph Eno, judges; and Miss Ruth Ely, schedule. A sale will be conducted after the show for army and navy relief, with Mrs. Richard Russell as chairman.

Sell $3425 In War Bonds At Theatre

All of $3425 worth of bonds were sold at the beginning of a one-month nation-wide drive to sell war bonds and stamps, which opened with patriotic exercises at the Andover Playhouse Tuesday night. The purpose of the drive, which is taking place at every motion picture house in the country, is to sell one billion dollars worth of bonds and stamps throughout the country during the next month.

Atty. Samuel Resnik, owner of the Playhouse, James Gould, chairman of the local War Bond committee, and Roy E. Hardy, chairman of the board of selectmen, were the speakers at the rally inaugurating the campaign at the theatre Tuesday night. The proceedings were broadcast over a Lowell radio station. Tom Clayton, Lowell radio announcer, introduced Mr. Resnik, who served as master of ceremonies.

The program opened with "God Bless America," as sung by Kate Smith, following which an American Legion color guard paraded the colors to the stage from the rear of the theatre. The audience then rose to sing the National Anthem.

The theatre has been granted authority by the Treasury Department to issue War Bonds for the convenience of those who may wish to purchase the securities but who, for any reason, cannot get them at their banks or post-offices, or who can only purchase them on evenings and week-ends.

New Warden School Opens September 21

A new school for air-raid wardens, incorporating the main elements of warden work, will open on September 21, rather than September 14, as previously planned. Sessions will be held at the Memorial Hall library every Monday and Thursday evening at 7:30 for three successive weeks.

Instructors at the school will be Chief Warden Leonard F. James and Arthur B. Darling of the Phillips Academy faculty. Mr. James has recently attended a school on the latest A.R.P. practice at Amherst, administered by Army officers, and Dr. Darling has enrolled in a similar school to be conducted at Amherst soon.

Those who wish to attend the school, and later be enrolled as wardens, are urged to register at the civilian defense office in the town house, or with Chief Warden James or Deputy Chief Warden Norman Miller. Persons, both men and women, who will be in Andover every day and available for duty then are especially requested to enroll, as there is a serious shortage of wardens who can serve during the daytime. Such persons will not be called on to serve at night.

There are vacancies in the corps of air raid wardens available in the evening, also, and persons who can serve then are also asked to join the new school.

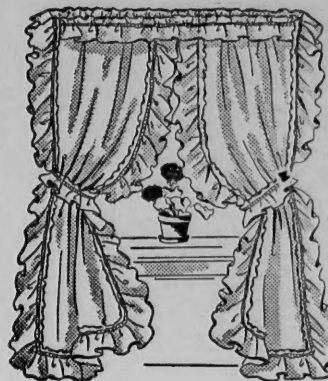

Second Lieut. Clarence H. Weeks, U. S. A., of Andover is attending the battery officer course in the field artillery school at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Weeks of 66 Chestnut street.

Francis B. McCarthy of the Phillips Academy faculty is vacationing at East Orleans.

Season Closes At Poms Pond

War changes a lot of things, as most Andover people have found during the last few months; it caused the cancellation, this year, of the usual swimming carnival to end the Poms Pond official swimming season. The Pond closed its facilities last Friday afternoon, no swimming meets or exhibitions being held because most of the better swimmers are now getting along swimmingly in Uncle Sam's armed forces.

The beach at Hussey's Pond was closed last Friday, but two lifeguards, J. Woodrow Crowley and William Holland, have been on duty this week at Poms. The rafts have now been taken in there, and the bath houses closed and minor repairs made.

The war made other, and more striking changes, in the pond program this year; because of the dearth of good male swimmers, two girls were regularly employed as lifeguards and swimming instructors. Miss Joan Fettes served as lifeguard at Hussey's Pond, Miss Jeanne Gregory at Poms. The other Poms lifeguards were J. Woodrow Crowley, Eugene Bernardin, and William Holland.

School Opening

teaching position after a severe illness of more than a year.

Howard Simons of Springfield, Mass., will act as boys' physical education director, replacing Carl Willgoose, now stationed at Camp Edwards.

Miss Olive Eldridge, former teacher at the North school, has been transferred to the West Center school to replace Miss Grace Boehner, who resigned to accept a position in Melrose. The new teacher at the North school will be Miss Gertrude Holt of Lawrence.

With the resignation of Alexander Dick as janitor at the Indian Ridge school, Davis McKee has taken over these duties.

Transportation routes will be the same as last year, although minor adjustments will probably be made after the opening. Rudolph Johnson, Chester Abbott, and Alvah Wright will drive their respective busses, while the high and junior high school pupils from the Shawshen Village area will be transported by the Eastern Massachusetts Railway busses, as last year.

A general meeting of all teachers will be held at the Andover Inn Tuesday. Following a luncheon, matters of routine nature will be discussed under the direction of Superintendent of Schools Edward I. Erickson.

Flag raising ceremonies will be held on the first day of school at all schools. The Punchard high school girls' band will furnish music for the ceremonies at the central schools. Fred Smith, chairman of the school committee, will be the speaker. Appropriate exercises will be held at the other schools, although the band will not take part due to a desire to co-operate in conservation of gasoline and rubber.

* * *

St. Augustine's parochial school will reopen next Wednesday morning. A registration of new pupils will be held tomorrow morning at 10:00. New pupils who have registered during the summer, of course, need not do so again.

Medals Presented To Playground Winners

Gold medals were awarded to the outstanding children at each of the local playgrounds last Friday night by Stafford A. Lindsay, chairman of the playground committee. The recipients were Miss Jacqueline Barry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Barry of North Main street, at Shawsheen; Branton Davey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davey of 16 Brook street, at Central; and Miss Marjorie Mears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mears of Oak street, at Ballardvale.

The awards were made to the playground children who had scored the most points in activities during the season. The method of scoring is: A.R.P. course, two to five points, according to the grade made. Soft ball league, two points for participation, one extra if on a winning team. For participation in a Friday special activity, one point, with an additional point if a ribbon is won. Participation in a tournament counts one point, with two additional if a ribbon is won.

Effort on parallel bars, one point, with two additional points for passing 12 or more exercises. Participation in handwork, one point, with two additional for winning a ribbon. Athletics, one point for participation, one extra for winning a ribbon.

Dramatics and nature study count one to three points; sportsmanship, one point; leadership and helpfulness, one to three points. In general, an applicant must be between 12 and 18 years of age, and must have had good attendance, good behavior, marked interest and co-operation in all activities.

Branton Davey, 14, winner of the Central playground medal, scored 18 points. Patsy Collins had 17 points, and Mildred Hey, 15.

Branton's points were made as follows: A.R.P. course, 5, soft ball league, 3; pet show, 1; field day, 2; parallel bars, 3; helpfulness, 1; sportsmanship, 1; leadership, 1; athletics, 1.

Marjorie Mears, 14, winner at Ballardvale, scored 23 points against Herbert MacDonald, who had 17. Marjorie won 5 points in the A.R.P. course; 3 in handwork; 1 in the ping-pong tournament; 1 in the checker tournament; 2 for field day; 2 in athletics; 1 for entering a child in the baby show; 1 for sportsmanship; 3 for helpfulness; 3 for parallel bar work; and 2 for leadership.

Jacqueline Barry, 14, was far and away the best candidate for gold medalist at Shawsheen, and had no close competitors. She had 19 points, scored according to the following schedule: A.R.P. course, 5 points; helpfulness, 3; leadership, 2; and 1 each for sports quiz, amateur contest, ping-pong tournament, handwork, checker tournament, athletics, horseshoe tournament, field day and sportsmanship.

All three medal winners had been outstanding in the junior warden work at the playgrounds this summer, and had successfully completed the A.R.P. course.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Wetterberg and sons, David and Robert, of 53 Summer street, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. George York at "Beachview," Cobbetts Pond.

Pvt. David Barker Higgins of Andover is now stationed at Camp Gruber, Oklahoma.

Miss Mary Collins is enjoying her annual vacation from her duties as town accountant.

Plan A.R.P. Groups For Local Churches

Another proof that war has really come home to Andover residents was contained in the announcement, this week that civilian defense workers will be organized to take charge of arrangements in each local church in the event of an air raid.

Leonard F. James, chief air raid warden, reported on the progress of the plan at the regular meeting of the civilian defense committee in its rooms last Thursday evening. According to the outline he gave, units will be formed in each local church for fire-fighting, first aid and warden work. The set-up will, of course, vary according to the size and needs of the various churches.

Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor of the South church, is in charge of organization of the program in the Andover Protestant churches, and Very Rev. Thomas B. Austin, O.S.A., pastor of St. Augustine's church, will supervise arrangements there.

take the place of Mrs. Julie Musk, recently resigned, until the next town elections. Miss Loomer was formerly a teacher at a girl's school at Exeter, N. H., and has been serving as an instructor at the local playgrounds this summer. The vote on her appointment was 10 to 1.

Howard R. Symonds of Springfield was elected as supervisor of physical education for boys, at $2,000 per year, to succeed Carl Willgoose, who recently entered service. Mr. Symonds graduated from Springfield college, where he received his B. S. degree in physical education in 1933.

He received his master's degree at Massachusetts State in 1939, majoring in secondary education, with a minor in history.

He was director of physical education for five years at the Trinity community house, Springfield, and was director of athletics and teacher-coach for two years at Danielson, Conn. For the past two years, he has been employed in the business office of Larson Junior college in Connecticut. He is married, and has no children.

Miss Gertrude Holt of Lawrence was appointed teacher in the North school, replacing Miss Olive Eldridge. The latter is to teach in the West Center school, replacing Miss Grace Bochner. Miss Holt is a resident of Lawrence, and a graduate of Lawrence high school and Salem Teachers' college. She has been engaged in teaching for the past five years, three in Vermont, one in Hudson, and, for the past year, in Tewksbury.

Salary increases of $100 per year for professional study, at Tuesday's meeting, were granted Miss Alice Stack of the central grammar schools and Miss Vera Thurston of the Shawsheen school.

A notice of dismissal was drafted at the meeting for Miss Alice Olliff, due to the recent closing of the art department in the public schools for the purpose of economy. The notice read, "whereas the art department and position of art supervisor have been abolished by vote of the school committee on July 28, 1942, and after having been given due notice, Miss Alice Olliff is hereby dismissed with regrets from the school department of Andover."

Canning Exhibit At Topsfield Fair

For the first time in several years, there will be an adult canning exhibit at the Topsfield Fair, beginning September 9. There is usually a fine canning exhibit by the junior department at the fair, however, and it has seemed advisable to hold a competition in canning for their elders.

Local women interested in exhibiting their canned products, fruits or vegetables, are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Charles W. Arnold of 88 Central street.

The rules governing the competition are: 1. Canned goods shall be home packed, with no dyes or powders. 2. Jars may be opened at the discretion of the judge. 3. Canned products shall be judged for quality, appearance, pack and taste. 4. The jars in each entry shall be clean and of the same size. 5. The products shown must be of the current year's production and prepared by the exhibitor. 6. Preference shall be given to practical packs rather than to fancy packs.

All jars should be labelled, size 1 in. by 2½ in., bearing the name of the product, the name of the person who did the canning, and the name of the town, in that order.

Frederick Nowell, Jr., of Chestnut street, is spending the week at Monomet Beach.

Grew To Direct Relief Society

A meeting of those engaged in organizing a committee for Chinese-Russian relief was held in the Memorial Hall library at 8:00 Friday evening. The following officers, following the report of the nominating committee, were elected: James Grew, chairman; Mrs. Julius Rockwell and Eric Starbuck, vice-chairmen; Mrs. Edith Kitchin, secretary; F. Howard Porter, treasurer; Mrs. Frances McClellan, Miss Miriam Putnam, and Mrs. Frederick Smith, directors. By nomination from the floor, there were added to the board of directors the members of the nominating committee, Miss Fannie Davis, Mrs. Colver Stone and Thaxter Eaton.

A resolution was adopted to hold a benefit motion picture performance at the Andover Playhouse, September 15 and 16. The program for the performance will consist of "Our Russian Front," pictures taken in Russia with English commentary by Walter Huston; "Salute to the Armed Forces," a technical picture showing America's preparations for all-out war; "Spanish Fiesta," showing the music and dances of that country; and a news reel and cartoon.

It is hoped that a color film of the Chinese-Japanese war, "Kukan," can be secured, though it is not available at present.

POLICE BLOTTER

With the beginning of the harvest season, some small boys-about-town are entertaining ideas of gathering in a private harvest of their own. Local police have already received several complaints of stealing from gardens, and will take action wherever necessary.

* * *

William M. Lydon of River road came before Lawrence District court Monday morning, charged with being drunk, operating under the influence of liquor and operating to endanger. The case was continued to tomorrow, at which time further evidence will probably be available.

Reserve Officer Joseph O'Brien arrested Lydon earlier in the week, after a collision between Lydon's car and one owned and operated by Walter J. Hamel of 106 Bowdoin street, Lawrence. With Hamel at the time were his wife, Mrs. Mae E. Hamel, and his eight-year-old niece, Lorraine Hamel, of Genesee street, Lawrence, all three receiving minor injuries. The accident took place on River road while Lydon was driving towards Lowell street.

Missing a bicycle? The police have a dandy one in the police station, waiting for its rightful owner, who may have it by submitting proof of his ownership. The bicycle was picked up Saturday night near the Irma Beene department store on Main street, and is equipped with two carriers, lights, batteries and stand. Judging from the paint job, it is fairly new. P. S. The tires are good, too.

List Of Candidates Is Published For Primaries

Though interest in the September 15 primaries is not quite as high as in past years, due to the lack of important contests in the major offices and lack of major interests on which the two main parties may differ, the complete list of Democratic and Republican candidates for nomination is given here for the convenience of Andover voters.

Information gleaned from reading the newspapers regarding the fuel situation is bewildering.

I think that it is wise to be prepared in any eventuality—if you have a fireplace, utilize it to its fullest extent.

Your Job Is To Vote!

Two years ago the Town of Andover had a total of 6032 citizens who were able to vote, but only 1886 of them took the trouble of going to the polls on Primary Day. Just 31%, from a town which prides itself on its intelligence and civic-mindedness! Two years before that, nearly fifty percent voted in the primaries, the Democrats having managed to pull out over 1,000 of the total 2804 out of the registered vote of 5778. In 1936 at the primaries, just 1697 voted out of the 5473 who were eligible to vote.

The apathy that the voters display toward primary elections is indeed strange. The Phillips Academy seal has inscribed on it the motto: "Finis Origine Pendet," and in voting just as in education, "the end depends on the beginning." In the primaries you choose the candidates whose names will appear on the ballot in November; if you don't vote in September, you might well find that you are limited in November to choosing the lesser of two evils. The primary is the election which should eliminate the undesirables.

The Massachusetts League of Women Voters is waging a campaign stressing the importance of voting on Primary day, September 15. An excerpt from a circular that organization is distributing points out a number of valid arguments:

YOU WANT TO WIN THE WAR!

The next Congress will help win the war or lose it.
The next state legislature will help the war effort or hinder it.
Your government—every part of it—was never so important as now.

YOU WANT TO ELECT TO OFFICE

Able, unselfish, patriotic candidates, who will think first of their country and last of themselves.
But you can elect in November only a candidate who is nominated in September.
So your vote at the Primary is just as important as your vote at the Election.

YOU WILL DO YOUR PART IF YOU

Know the records of the candidates.
Spread the word of the importance of the Primary.
Vote on September 15 for men you can trust.

THE RIGHT SENATOR IS AS IMPORTANT AS THE RIGHT GENERAL!

A VOTE DODGER IS AS UNPATRIOTIC AS A DRAFT DODGER.

HELP WIN THE WAR BY YOUR VOTE!

Let's Do Something

There's another big group going in for preliminary induction Saturday morning. They'll probably all come back the same day, because the new policy allows them two weeks after final acceptance before they go off on duty.

When they do go two weeks from Saturday, can't we do something more by them than we have been doing? The last time, just a few weeks ago, over 50 went, and now they are scattered all over the Nation, and in a few months they may be scattered all over the World. But what happened? They arrived at the town house, hung around for a while, and then walked to the station, with only relatives and friends to see them off.

They're going to be fighting for more than their relatives and friends; they're going to be fighting for all of us. We're proud of them; let's show that we're proud of them. In the past, they could well be ashamed of us.

Let's Get Scrappy

Junk isn't junk any more. It's the most valuable material on earth. The stuff in your attic is more important to the war effort than the furnishings in your living room. Your junk-dealer is a local merchant of the first importance. Rummaging in your attic is more important than as a phase of fall cleaning.

The plain facts are that this country does not have all the material it needs to make arms and munitions, equipment for the greatest armies, the largest navies, the hugest volume of material sent to our allies, in our history. It is no use asking why; it is futile to grumble about government mishandling and bungling. The only point we must heed is that our factories cannot make something out of nothing.

We've heard a great deal about collecting scrap; perhaps we're a little tired of the subject. Perhaps the Germans are getting a little weary of making huge sacrifices for the famous Winter Relief Fund, but there is no doubt that enough money will be raised to keep the German machine rolling. The Germans have a way of arranging such things. The benevolence of the Gestapo assures that there will be no unseemly difficulties.

Over here, the collection of necessary materials is voluntary; it has the weakness of any volunteer effort in that it must succeed in arousing interest and co-operation.

There is no reason why our people should not get the scrap in, and get in the scrap. There is certainly nothing to do with a worthless harrow or wheelbarrow except to get rid of it. A decrepit rubber boot is no good to you, but precious to the rubber industry. Tin cans are only one more element contributing to the chaos of your cellar. Pan drippings are garbage to you, gold to manufacturers of explosives.

We've been searching querulously for the past several months for the now-famous "second front." While we're waiting, why not try making a "second front" right in our own homes? Why shouldn't 130,000,000 Americans take pride in the fact that they face one of the most important assignments ever given to the home front in this nation's wartime history?

Here's a starter for you—cold figures laid down by the federal director of the conservation division. He says that seventeen million tons of scrap iron must be routed to the steel mills by January 1, 1943. Thousands of tons have undoubtedly already been rescued from junk heaps, but the director talks in terms of millions of tons, and so must we think.

Seventeen million tons must be given by one hundred thirty million people. It doesn't take an Einstein to figure out that that amounts to a ton from every eight people in the country. It means 250 pounds from every member of your family. It means that you've really got to get down and dig.

Maybe your neighbor has just moved into town, and there hasn't been time for metal scrap to accumulate in his attic or cellar. Maybe he's already gotten rid of all the junk he had. Maybe he just won't bother. If you're an American and a patriot, you'll try to handle part of his job, too.

This Sober Town

A scene in the office of Chairman Foster C. Barnard of the local rationing board, last week, would have filled the heart of any local motorist with the deepest anguish. A whole waste-basketful of gas coupons at that time, was tossed into an incinerator and converted to ashes.

It was all according to regulation rationing board procedure, of course, which decrees that the coupons must be turned in to the board by gasoline dealers, counted and checked, and then completely destroyed. The only two people to witness what was undoubtedly a heart-rending scene, however, were Mr. Barnard and Mrs. Raymond Wilde, clerk at the local rationing office.

Signs of the times: we wish to laud the local bus company on their action in covering the bright roofs of their vehicles with brown paint. Enemy planes trying to catch a bus on the highway will probably have as much trouble as the ordinary civilian.

We don't think camouflage has really hit Andover as a war measure, in spite of the praiseworthy efforts of Mr. Dahl and the Addison Gallery. We are going to inaugurate a campaign, for instance, for ladies to wear big brown hats on the local streets, topped with those very fashionable vegetable gardens that were in vogue in World War I. From the sky, it will look like Birnam Wood coming to Dunsinane.

Since camouflage is the art of making things look as if they are where they ain't, and ain't where they are, we have several topographical changes in mind. We should really have Haggett's Pond moved to the southern part of town, for instance, and Prospect Hill must be completely leveled.

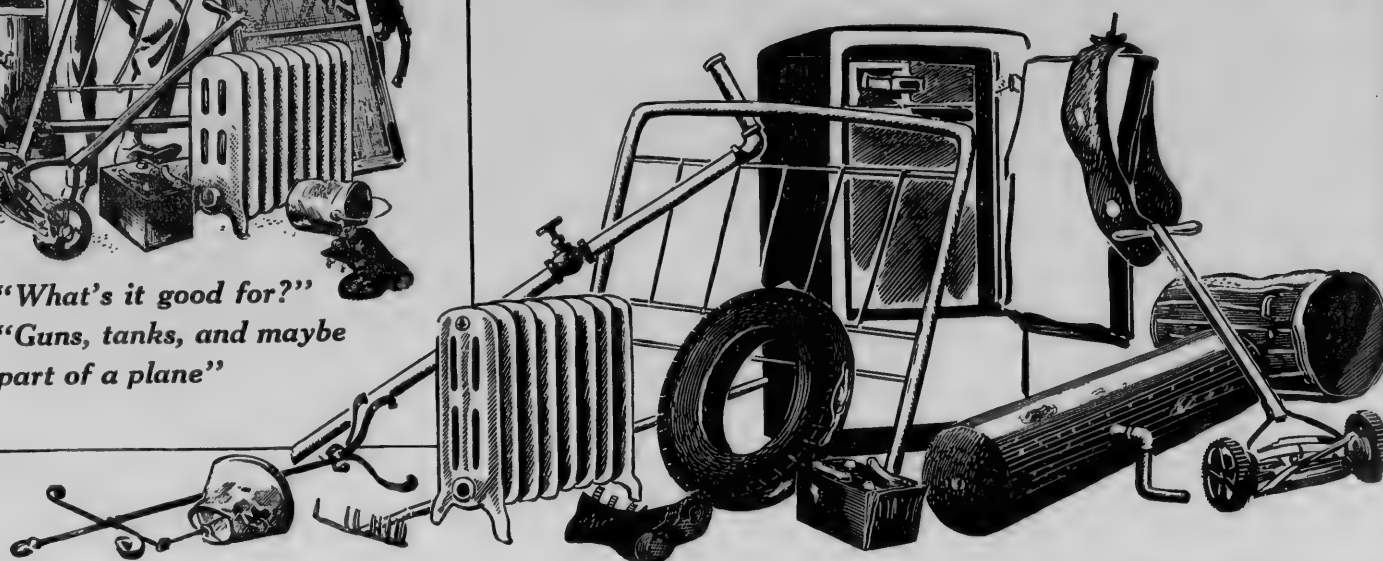

Miss Constance Cole and Miss Shirley Hay have returned from a short camping trip on the Shaw-shen river.

JUNK

needed for War

"What's it good for?"
"Guns, tanks, and maybe part of a plane"

In the attics and cellars of homes, in garages, tool sheds, and on farms, is a lot of Junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example. Old radiators, lengths of pipe, refrigerators, garbage pails, broken garden tools...

It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel, with most impurities removed—and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.

Even in peacetime our Nation relied on scrap to provide about 50% of the raw material for steel. Now production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined.

But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns, and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead, and tin.

America needs your active assistance in rounding up these materials. The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?

First—collect all your waste material and pile it up.

Then—sell it to a Junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

ments. Harold Wennik of Elm street, and William H. Riley of Ballardvale were elected vice-chairmen; Atty. Anna M. Greeley secretary, and Charles E. Foster, treasurer.

A special committee on activities includes the above, as ex-officio members, and Mrs. Joseph T. Gagne, Superintendent of Schools Edward I. Erickson, Edgar Northam, George F. Symonds and Alexander Duke.

Events tentatively scheduled for the three-day program include football games on Saturday and Monday, and possibly a special soccer game Sunday afternoon. A baked bean supper may be held Saturday evening in the public school cafeteria, with general dancing to follow.

All the activities will be centered at the local playstead. The school committee, last week, extended the facilities of the school buildings nearby to the committee. A committee on finances, including Guy B. Howe, J. Augustus Remington and J. Everett Collins, has been appointed to assist the treasurer.

A special meeting of the activities sub-committee will be held in the town house tonight to make plans for the various events, which will be brought before the general committee a week from tonight. All interested local organizations are asked to send one representative to the latter meeting.

The Home Service committee is particularly anxious that one member of each local organization, church, social, civic, fraternal, patriotic, represent that organization in an extensive program of work, to last for the duration, now being mapped out. The sending of Christmas gifts, though the first major activity of the group, will serve merely as an introduction to the full-scale program to be inaugurated later.

Any local organization is invited to conduct any sort of activity it wishes for the benefit for the boys in service, and to deposit the money raised in a bank to the credit of the Home Service committee. A public accounting of all funds in the committee treasury will be made from time to time, through the medium of the press, and full credit will be given to the co-operating groups. All funds will be handled jointly by the treasurer and his finance committee.

The new committee has several programs in mind, both to promote the welfare of the boys in service, and to knit Andover groups into a closer fraternity, in order that the town may present a "united front" through the duration of the war.

An old-timers' tag day is planned for a week from Sunday, for instance, in which several ballplayers of another day will compete against members of the Andover Town Team in baseball, ball-throwing, base-running, a tug-of-war and the like. Selectman J. Everett Collins has been chosen as manager, and he has already lined up such well-known "old-timers" as Henry Porter, Joe Holland, Bill Daiton, Harry Trow, Ed Erickson, Gene Lovely, Walt Ripley and Charlie Bowman. Any other youngster of 40 to 50 seasons who doesn't mind being classed as an "old-timer" is cordially invited to take part with Mr. Collins' squad.

Besides the Columbus Day program, other activities under consideration by the Home Service committee include sending bundles to boys in service from time to time, perhaps on their birthdays, and the formation of a group to write letters to Andover men who have no relatives or close friends with whom they can correspond. Activities will be planned in which every local group, every local individual, will be able to join.

HE'S GOT TO HAVE
First Call!

UNCLE SAM'S war calls are crowding telephone lines. They cannot be delayed. Even minutes count when you are speeding the building of a big war machine.

All of us must do our part to give Uncle Sam first call on telephone service.

YOU CAN HELP—and help a lot, by reducing the non-essential calls you make—both long distance and local—and by making all telephone calls as brief as possible.

Ordinarily we'd build more lines but that's out for the duration. The order of the day is to get along with what we have.

So we're asking you—please—to think before you telephone—to ask yourself—Is this call essential? Or—Can I make this call briefer?

THE CITY THAT GREW BY 1,000,000 ALMOST OVERNIGHT

Since the start of war preparations the telephone requirements of Washington, D. C., have increased at a rate equal to the needs of 1,000,000 people. Long distance lines to this nerve center of the war are continuously crowded.

Unless your call is essential, please do not call Washington, D. C.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

The Baptist church will hold its first service of the season Sunday at 10:45. The church school and the Christian Endeavor society will hold their opening meetings on the following Sunday.

Rev. Elton E. Smith, pastor, accompanied a group of Baptist church boys on an all-week bicycle tour of the White Mountains this week. The boys used a camp belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H.
Tucker of Abbot street as a base of operations. Those making the trip included Harvey Tucker, Whitney Hansen, Kenneth Dennison, Nelson Thompson and William Cot-tam.

WHY DO THEY CALL IT THAT

The hundreds of children who swim there every day may wonder, during their idle moments, why Pomps Pond goes by that particular name instead of some other. It might, for instance, have been named Lake Cochichawicke as well as that North Andover pond; in fact, it is due only to the homesickness for the old country of our early inhabitants that Andover isn't known as Cochichawicke to this very day. Cochichawicke itself, by the way, means "the place of the great cascade," which must have gone away to cascade somewhere else before our time...

To get back to Pomps Pond, it was named in honor of the most celebrated person to live permanently on its shores, always excepting the Indians. His name was not Pomp, but Pompey—Pompey Lovejoy, servant of Capt. William Lovejoy, one of Andover's more prominent early residents. All we know about Pompey is that he lived in a small cabin near the pond, and "made election cake and beer for the delectation of voters' palates on town-meeting days." We are sorry that we can't trace the matter any further; we don't know whether all the voters got drunk before casting their ballots, whether the candidates for office bought the beer for them, or why they had to go all the way to Pomps to get a snootful.

Pompey was colored, and a slave
—which needn't shock present-day residents, since slavery existed in Andover from the first quarter century after its founding until 1859, when Rose Coburn, Andover's last slave, died at the ripe old age of 92.

Pomps Pond was named for one of Andover's humblest early dwellers; Haggett's, from one of its more prominent landholders. The democratic spirit got an early start in Andover.

The fact that the latter pond is now called "Haggett's" is more or less a testimony to the illiteracy of our grand-dads; by rights, it should be "Haggit's." Moses Haggit of Ipswich it was who moved to Andover in 1679, and bought 21 acres of land on the southwest side of "Blanch-ard's Pond." He and his descendants lived there through several generations, and gradually the present name came to be used. The old title survived till 1720, at least,
and the land about the pond was called "Blanchard's Plain" for a century thereafter.

Guardsmen Learn Guerilla Warfare

Andover's security company of State Guardsmen is at present engaged in learning the principles of guerilla warfare, including the principles of camouflage, extended order drill and field maneuvers, the main purpose being to teach them to protect themselves while advancing under enemy fire and to maintain an effective covering fire themselves.

The company drilled the last two Sunday mornings at the local playground. Later, it is expected that actual field experience will be gained through practice in camouflaging troops, and then detecting the camouflage, in some wooded part of town.

The local Guardsmen are at present equipped with rifles lent by the Methuen high school drill corps, but it is expected that twelve-gauge shotguns and Thompson sub-machine guns, regular equipment of the Guard infantry companies, will be issued shortly. Every member of the company is now fully equipped.

A special rifle team has been formed, in charge of Sergt. Hugo Paakki, and it will compete with teams throughout the state. In recent preliminary shooting at the Lawrence armory, the Andover team made excellent scores.

"There was a famous paradox in antiquity—A grain of wheat falls noiselessly to the ground, the same thing happens with the second, the third, the fourth, and so on, for the thousands of grains that make up a bushel. But collect the grains again and drop the whole bushel, and, behold! a great noise. It seemed difficult to explain how the sum of many thousands of silences could result in one great sound.

"The silent unit, the single grain, will win the war."

Old-Timers Day Benefit Sunday

Contests Are Featured For Servicemen's Fund

Andover residents desiring to have a lot of fun and at the same time to help their friends from this town in service can satisfy both ambitions fully by coming to the Old-Timers Day benefit for the Christmas fund of the local Home Service committee Sunday afternoon at the playground.

Contests in base-running and ball throwing as well as relay races and tugs-of-war will prove some of the most attractive features. Two ball games will be held, the first between two picked teams of Andover ballplayers of another generation, the second between the Andover town team and the St. Anne club of Lawrence.

The American Legion junior bugle and drum corps will take part in the exercises, and refreshments will be sold on the grounds. Though there will be no admission charge, contributions will be solicited for tags. Proceeds will be devoted to the special fund for Christmas gifts for each of the 600 Andover men in uniform, now being raised by the Home Service committee.

The day's program will open at 1:30 with the old-timers' baseball game, lasting seven innings. The various contests will take place in the interim between the two games in the following order: (1) base-running for men, timed by means

Tyer Rubber Gets Production Award

Special Recognition From War Department

Tyer Rubber workers received a signal honor from the United States government Tuesday, when it was announced, in a letter from Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, that the Army and Navy are conferring upon the employees of the local firm the coveted Army-Navy Production Award.

Under Secretary Patterson's letter, addressed "to the men and women of Tyer Rubber company, Andover, Massachusetts" read as follows:

"This is to inform you that the Army and Navy are conferring upon you the Army-Navy Production Award for great accomplishment in the production of war equipment.

"This award symbolizes your country's appreciation of the achievement of every man and woman in the Tyer Rubber company. It consists of a flag to be flown above your plant and a lapel pin which each of you may wear as a sign of distinguished service to your country.

Fair Treatment Unusual Among Japs

Fulton Freeman, Husband of Local Girl, Describes Conditions On Return From Internment In China

Fulton Freeman, husband of the former Miss Phyllis Eaton of Andover, and member of the American Embassy at Peiping, China, since 1940, returned to the United States two weeks ago on the Swedish diplomatic exchange liner Gripsholm. He emphasized on his arrival that in view of the harsh treatment accorded other interned diplomats by the Japanese, he considered his party very fortunate in being accorded the fair treatment it received.

Mr. Freeman has been in the consular service since 1939. Following his marriage to the former Miss Eaton at Pasadena, Calif., in October, 1938, he spent some time training for diplomatic service in Washington, D. C. His first assignment was in Mexico City, and he remained there until transferred to Peiping.

Mrs. Freeman is the daughter of the late Guy H. Eaton, well-known instructor at Phillips Academy for many years. She was educated in the local public schools and at St. Lawrence university. Following her graduation, she became a secretary in the executive offices at Phillips Academy, and later held a similar position at Princeton university.

She spent several months with her husband in Peiping in 1940, but was forced to return to this country on January 1, 1941, since all American women were then ordered to leave Japanese occupied territory.

On arriving in this country, Fulton Freeman emphasized that the favorable treatment of Americans in Peiping should be considered "an exception to the rule." He considered particularly atrocious the case of J. B. Powell, a fellow-passenger, the story of whose wanton torture by the Japanese was featured in a national magazine last week.

A decrease of about seven percent over last year's opening day enrollment became evident yesterday morning at the first session of the local public schools. The decrease amounted to 94 pupils in all the schools, the major loss of pupils occurring at Punchard high school and the Junior high school, where the enrollment figures are down 26 and 41 respectively from those of last September.

The enrollment figures, as announced from the office of the superintendent of schools, are: Punchard, 323 in 1941, 297 today; Junior high, 405 and 364; Stowe school, 346 and 335; Snaawsheen, 175 and 173; Indian Ridge, 64 and 61; Bradley, 59 and 52; West Center, 52 and 52; North, 20 and 16; totals, 1444 and 1350.

Since opening day figures are always considerably lower than the average attendance throughout the year in Andover, it is expected that a number of students will be enrolled later. In all probability, neither war industry nor the armed forces will claim more than a seat-

No Democratic candidate.

Questions

The League of Women Voters has recently sent a questionnaire to all the candidates for state senator and representatives in General Court. These questions, and the answers received from all the candidates except one, were:

What services of the State Government do you believe should be maintained or strengthened in this war period?

PRIEST: "All state departments and agencies which are essential to further the war effort or to preserve public health, safety and morale and to assist those in need, as well as those which are necessary to supervise the government expenditures, should be maintained and if necessary strengthened."

BOWER: "Soldiers' Relief."

COLLINS: "I firmly believe that any department essential and vital to the war effort is very necessary to the carrying on of this war to a successful conclusion, and should be maintained to its fullest and strengthened where necessary."

SCHLAPP: "I believe that the fundamental framework of the State Government should remain the same even in this war period. This does not mean that there cannot be retrenchments of a necessary character. I firmly believe that we have gone too far along the road towards a strong centralized government with a consequent and detrimental loss of state and local rights."

WOEKEL: "Police force should be maintained and strengthened, also fire force. Close to seashore we need the protection of trained men."

Where and how do you believe economies could be made?

PRIEST: "Government services, if any, which are not essential to the orderly running of the government or for which there is no real public demand or necessity should be eliminated. So far as consistent with efficiency, vacancies occurring in the various departments might be left unfilled. Careful supervision of departmental expenditures to avoid waste and extravagance. Serious attempt to reduce state expenditures in expectation of reduced revenue without impairing services mentioned in answer to Question 1."

BOWER: "Offices of Unemployment. Highways."

COLLINS: "Many positions which will be vacant on account of state workers going into the service or into industry should be left vacant when possible. Departments can and are saving considerable money by the strictest economy in the matter of supplies, telephones, telegrams, and a hundred other items."

SCHLAPP: "Wherever the war has made it necessary to abolish or curtail programs in the State set-up, economies may be effected. This system has already been adopted in several State Departments with benefit to the Finances of the State and without serious detriment to the State employees."

WOEKEL: "I believe we should use all our efforts to bring the war to a victorious ending, and careful handling of State funds is necessary to bring this about."

Fear Presence Of "Con Game" Here

Chief George A. Dane of the local police department issued a warning yesterday that one or more petty racketeers may be soliciting funds under false pretences in Andover.

Yesterday morning, a man supposedly representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars called at the home of a woman residing in Foster circle, and requested a donation of $2.00 to purchase cigarettes for soldiers from Lawrence, North Andover and Andover. Since the man had evidently been drinking, the woman asked him to come back later. He returned yesterday afternoon, still behaving suspiciously, and the local woman postponed the donation again and notified the police. Officer John Deyermund of the local department toured the neighborhood in the police cruiser, but was unsuccessful in locating the man in question.

Commander George F. Symonds of the local V. F. W. post has stated that no house-to-house canvass of any sort is now going on, and that there is no such thing as a fund for cigarettes for servicemen in his organization at the present time.

Apparently the person requesting the donation is taking names at random from a street directory or other public listing. He is described as fairly tall, with dark curly hair, stocky, wearing white shoes, a dark suit and a raincoat. During his Foster Circle visit, he was in a sedan operated by another man.

The third event will be an "accuracy ball-throwing contest" for men, the object being to throw baseballs at a definite target. A walking race will follow, the route being from home-plate to the right-field foul line flag, diagonally across the field to the left-field flag, and back to home plate.

Two distance ball-throwing contests will be held, one for men, one for women. Simultaneous relay races will then take place, one team circling the bases in a clockwise direction, the other, counter-clockwise. The tug-of-war finals and the town team-Tewksbury game will conclude the day's activities. Incidentally, it will be the final game of the season for the local club.

Worthwhile prizes will, of course, be awarded for each contest. The committee on arrangements includes John M. Erving, Harold Wenik, William H. Riley, Miss Anna M. Greeley, Charles E. Foster, Mrs. Joseph T. Gagne, Edward I. Erickson, Edgar Northam, George F. Symonds and Alexander Duke.

An open meeting of the entire Home Service committee will be held this evening at 7:30 sharp in the lower town hall. Some 30 organizations are already represented on the committee, and all others are urged to appoint delegates to the committee, who will represent their associations for the duration of the war. It is hoped that every church, social, fraternal and patriotic organization will be represented, and it is particularly urged that they attend tonight, as permanent standing committees will be drawn up soon from the roster of delegates present.

OWNSMAN, September 10, 1942

This Is a Women's War, Too!

Andover has just reason to be proud of the part its women have taken in the war effort. One of them is now in training in the WAAC's; four of them are army and navy nurses.

Lieut. Mary Winslow of the Army medical corps, pictured at the left, is now stationed at Camp Blanding, Florida. The daughter of Town Clerk and Mrs. George H. Winslow, she is a graduate of Punchard high school and the nurses' school at Newton hospital. She was commissioned in the Army Nurse corps in April.

Ensign Helen Harkin, pictured on the right, represents Andover among the Navy nurses. She is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Harkin of 2 Sweeney court, and is a graduate of Punchard high school and the nurses' training school at Lawrence General hospital. She was commissioned several months ago at Chelsea Naval Hospital.

Ensign Harkin's brother, Sergt. Arthur Harkin of the U. S. Marine corps, was one of two Andover men at Pearl Harbor when the Jap struck there. At last reports, he was stationed in Honolulu, but has probably been transferred since then. There was probably nothing coincidental about Ensign Harkin's volunteering for active war service a few short months after Pearl Harbor. (Look Photo Service)

Oil Users Reminded To Return Questionnaires

Since only about 250 are still outstanding out of the 959 questionnaires originally sent out from the local civilian defense office, those who have not yet returned their blanks are asked to do so this week, in order that the survey being made may be as complete as possible.

It is emphasized that information on consumption of fuel oil alone is required, since range oil is not included in the survey. Local oil users are reminded that there is no present indication that fuel oil will be rationed, and that the survey is purely for the purpose of finding out the actual requirements of the New England states.

Movie Show For Russian Relief

The Andover committee for Chinese-Russian relief opens its fall activities next Tuesday and Wednesday, with a two-day program in the Andover Playhouse. As it proved impossible at this date to get the Chinese film wanted, the feature film will be Our Russian Front, with pictures taken in Russia and with English comment by Walter Huston. The film does not show the immediate horrors of battle, but shows various types of Russian troops going into action, and shows activities behind the lines, preparing defenses, bringing in prisoners, etc. With this will be a film showing American preparations for war, in technicolor, and a Spanish fiesta, a news reel and a cartoon.

Topsfield Fair Rodeo Finals This Week-end

The week-end will bring the finals of the thrilling, hard-fought contests in the championship rodeo at the 121st annual Topsfield Fair. The semi-final bronc-busting, bulldogging, wild Brahma steer riding, calf roping and other competitions will be held Saturday afternoon and evening with the survivors going into the final tests Sunday afternoon and night.

The largest travelling rodeo ever to appear in New England has more than 200 head of wild stock and the cowboys, cowgirls and Indians taking part number 125.

Week-end crowds are expected to greet with the same enthusiasm manifested by those who already attended the exposition, the special war-time features including civilian defense and air raid precaution exhibits, "Victory" gardens, "Food for Freedom" programs, canning demonstrations, salvage and War Bond campaigns.

An added attraction Sunday will be the auctions of prize-winning flower, fruit and vegetable exhibits. The auctions will take place early in the evening.

Saturday will be Children's Day and the gates will be open to youngsters until 1 P. M. Service men also will be admitted without charge Saturday, and every other day. Free admission also will be given to those contributing 50 pounds of scrap metal or 20 pounds of rubber to the fair's salvage pile.

LIBRARY NOTES

The Memorial Hall library has recently added the famous "Jane's Fighting Ships" to its reference collection. The book has been issued annually since 1897, and is the acknowledged world authority on all the navies of the world. The library's edition is for 1941, issued in 1942, and contains all available data on our Navy, and those of our allies and even of our enemies. There are a great many illustrations, and silhouettes of every type of fighting ship now afloat.

Data given covers displacement, dimensions, tonnage, speed, armor, size and number of guns, machinery, date built and modernized. A special war loss section presents pictures and data on ships, Allied and Axis, sunk during the past year, and information is given on ships now under construction. The treatment is arranged both by class and country.

George E. Potier of 4 Locke street spent the holiday week-end at his home. He enlisted in the Army Air Forces on July 22, and is now located at the Casey technical school at Newark, N. J., where he is receiving instruction as an aeronautical ground mechanic.

THERE'S A WAR ON. Otherwise we wouldn't ask you. But war calls must not be delayed and millions of war calls are made every day. The speed with which they are handled depends on telephone lines not being tied up.

You say to yourself . . . "My call can't possibly interfere with war calls. Goodness, I have to talk to Mother . . . and the grocer, and my friends. What difference do my few ten or fifteen minute calls make? That's what I have a telephone for. . . . What kind of telephone service is this?"

Well it's not the kind of telephone service we'd like to give you. But don't fool yourself about your few calls. Every call counts now. Non-essential calls use as much telephone equipment as the essential ones. . . . There isn't room for both, because telephone equipment can't be sufficiently increased due to copper and other metal shortages.

So . . . please, lady, make your telephone calls briefer. . . . And make long distance calls fewer.

War calls must not be delayed.

Schools

The election of a new teacher of physical education for boys will become necessary shortly, since Howard Simons, recently elected, is now planning to enter the armed forces and has declined that position. Anton Kishon, football coach and science teacher at Puncard high school during the past year, and now an instructor at Phillips Academy, has agreed to handle the physical education duties assigned to Mr. Simons until a new teacher can be secured.

The public flag-raising exercises which proved such an impressive feature at the opening of all the schools in 1941 had to be foregone this year, since it was felt that the shortages of rubber and gasoline did not warrant the extensive transportation involved. Separate programs will be conducted at each of the schools, however.

Flag-raising exercises at the central schools were postponed, due to the weather, both yesterday and today, and will take place tomorrow morning at 9:30. Remarks are to be offered by Superintendent Edward I. Erickson and Chairman Frederick C. Smith of the school committee, and the pupils will join in a mass salute to the flag.

The complete program will be: Down the Field March (Friedman)—Puncard girls' band; remarks by Superintendent Erickson; flag raising; Star Spangled Banner—girls' band; salute to the flag; address by Mr. Smith; NC-4 March (Bigelow)—girls' band.

The musical program is under the direction of Miss Miriam Sweeney, supervisor of music in the public schools and instructor for the girls' band. The band consists of 75 members this year, instead of the membership of 65 in previous year.

Honorary positions in the band for the coming year, it was announced will be held by the following members: Jean Gilfoy, drum major; Jane Lindsay, sergeant of the color guard; Barbara Hill, sergeant of the majorettes; Betty Jane Gordon, sergeant of the trumpet section; Muriel Pullan, sergeant of the trombone section; Barbara Lewis, sergeant of the alto horn section; Audrey Tompkins, sergeant of the saxophone section; Angela Magnano, sergeant of clarinets, and Ruth Anne Gregory, sergeant of the percussion section.

The teachers in the public schools held a luncheon meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Andover Inn. Superintendent Erickson addressed the group and introduced a guest speaker, Rev. Harold Bentley of Derry Village, N. H. Three new teachers, Frederick Riel, George Snyder and Miss Gertrude Holt, were introduced to the assembly.

Hannan Now Serving In Construction Regiment

Lawrence J. Hannan, Jr., seaman first class, U. S. N. R., now stationed at Camp Bradford, Norfolk, Va., is enjoying a five-day leave at his home at 63 High street. He is serving with the Naval construction regiment.

A graduate of Puncard high school, class of 1937, he was employed at the Tyer Rubber company prior to his enlistment in the Naval Reserve several weeks ago.

Heroes of Production

In these days when it is so very, very obvious that we can't win this war without pushing our productive facilities to the limit, the tribute that the War and Navy departments have paid to the Tyer Rubber company's workers here in Andover is a very impressive one. Our boys can go out, unarmed and without equipment, and win medals for distinguished service, because that's what our boys are made of—but to win this war, we have to have more and more firms which are capable of winning their "E's."

We're proud that we have such a firm here in Andover. If the employees need any further thanks for their spirit and their work than the honor that the government has paid them, they might derive quite a bit of satisfaction out of knowing that some thousands of Andover people are going to be mighty proud of that flag that will some day soon fly from the roof of the Tyer Rubber company.

We Have To Work For It

"Does Andover want to be represented at the State House?"

Everyone in Andover knows the answer to that question—but everyone in Andover must participate in giving that answer. Of course Andover wants to be represented; we fumed like the very dickens when we weren't represented in the days when we had been gerrymandered into submission to South Lawrence. Now we're out of that district, and for the past two years we've had representation in the legislature at Boston by a man from our own town, J. Everett Collins.

It's a privilege we have to work for, though. There are four candidates for the three Republican nominations. Three of them are from Methuen. If our neighboring town acts as pretty much of a unit, it can have three representatives and we'll have none—unless we all go out and vote next Tuesday.

It CAN happen; the arithmetic of the situation is plain. Two years ago we nominated our candidate—but it was a big field and the Methuen vote couldn't be concentrated. This year it can. The Methuenites have three votes, and they have three candidates. And unless they realize that Everett is the most capable in the field, and unless we think enough of our representation to go out and do something about it, Andover will be represented by three Methuenites.

You can leave the answer in Methuen's hands. You can sit at home and hope that they, when they vote, will cast their ballots for Mrs. Schlapp and Mr. Hill of Methuen, and then their other for Mr. Collins—OR you can get out Tuesday and vote here in Andover. If you're a true Andoverite, you'll show up at your polling place. You all know Everett; you all know his service to the town in many capacities. He's been loyal to you; why not be loyal to him—and to Andover?

Rectify The Mistake

We went and made a mistake two years ago the coming November. The whole country made a mistake.

There was a name on the ballot, and it read: "C. F. Nelson Pratt." After it there was the word "Republican." Here in Andover at that time our Republicanism had had a positive basis again, thanks to a man named Willkie; in preceding years our Republicanism had had a negative basis thanks to a man named Roosevelt. But positive or negative, we were Republican, and in 1940 we were very much imbued with a desire to elect Willkie and all those on the ballot with him. In Andover we pretty much voted the straight Republican ticket, and it was without a tinge of conscience that we marked an "X" after that name "C. F. Nelson Pratt."

But we shouldn't have. It was a mistake, a bad mistake. Because he had the word "Republican" after his name, we elected a man to the county commission who was totally unqualified for the position, and who has since demonstrated very well how totally unqualified he was. We should have known: his previous political record had not been one of which to boast. But we just went ahead and elected a very poor Republican instead of a good Democrat. Oh, yes, there really are good Democrats.

Tuesday we can still vote Republican and vote against Mr. Pratt. It's primary time, and if we fail to nominate C. F. Nelson Pratt, he can't be on the ballot in November. The other candidate on the Republican ticket is Mr. Bentley, who served before Mr. Pratt on the county commission and did a very excellent job. He deserves the nomination; Essex county doesn't deserve to have a man like Mr. Pratt running its affairs.

This Sober Town

Local police had more than enough opportunity this week to scratch their heads and ask, "What's the shootin' fer?" There were two different occasions when local people were found using lethal weapons in a highly unorthodox manner. In one instance, boys were shooting at a tree, off Sunset Rock road; occasionally, the bullets would ricochet, and slam into a nearby house.

Later in the week, four local men were discovered putting bullets from a .22 rifle into a log, and again some of the bullets had a tendency to seek the wrong billet.

So if the Germans are entertaining any notions of coming over here before we go over there, they'd better keep their eyes peeled. We've got some fellows here in Andover who'll shoot at anything—even Nazis.

Punchard's football team ought to be better this year than for the past several seasons, if enterprise and hard work have anything to do with the matter. We point with pride to several members of last year's squad, including Captain Gilbert S. Hamlin, Jr., who have been practicing at the playstead nightly, from supper-time till dusk, during the past week. Frederick M. Reil, new coach at Punchard this year, has been on hand to direct the workouts.

The first formal session, of course, didn't come until the schools opened yesterday.

The popular conception of a newspaper man is of a dissipated individual in a wrinkled suit, wearing a battered slouch hat far down on his forehead, with a cigarette hanging from his lips and paper from every pocket. Another misconception is that a newspaperman has the inside information on practically every shady business in his locality, and that he is miraculously present at every automobile accident, every suicide, every riot, that takes place within a radius of several hundred square miles.

Negligence and omnipresence, however, are only a small part of a newspaperman's equipment. A good reporter is really a fellow who knows where every person of prominence can be found at any hour of the day; who is acquainted with every police official, every club officer, every undertaker in his own territory; who knows the middle initial of everybody in town. If this is too much to ask, the knowledge of middle initials alone will do.

Mental equipment follows the same haphazard lines. A knowledge of the century in which the Battle of Waterloo was fought, for instance, is not nearly as important as an acquaintance with the date on which John B. Ordinary entered the U. S. Army. The reporter who can successfully pretend, to his source of information, that the news he hears is as dead as a dinosaur, will some day be a city editor.

A newspaperman isn't a man who knows everything; he's a guy who knows twenty people who, among them, know everything. And he couldn't hold his job for ten minutes without the aid of a telephone book.

Communication

I Orchard Street

To the Editor:

On the island between Merepoint and Pennellville, Casco Bay, Maine, there's a large raspberry patch growing together with delicate ferns.

My son and I were picking there, when both of us suddenly realized that someone else had been making paths in front of us, within a very few minutes, too. The ferns were freshly trampled in broad low loops; then we found the dung of a bear, and a twig snapped near by.

Oh bear! What Nazi-like aggressors you must have thought us as you watched our clumsy hands while you, with your great lumbering 400 pounds, had gathered the berries with your dexterous tongue.

Dear bear!—forgive our trespassing—believe how gladly I'd share all the raspberries in my garden with your kind as the symbol of Russian War Relief.

A knowledge of the century in which the battle of Waterloo was fought, for instance, is not nearly as important as an acquaintance with the date in which John B. Ordinary entered the U. S. Army. The reporter who can successfully pretend, to his source of information, that the news he hears is as dead as a dinosaur, will some day be a city editor. A newspaperman isn't a man who knows everything; he's a guy who knows twenty people who, among them, know everything. And he couldn't hold his job for ten minutes without the aid of a telephone book.

Communication

I Orchard Street
to the Editor:
On the island between Merepoint and Pennellville, Casco Bay, Maine, there's a large raspberry patch growing together with delicate ferns.

My son and I were picking there, when both of us suddenly realized that someone else had been making paths in front of us, within a very few minutes, too. The ferns were freshly trampled in broad low mounds; then we found the dung of a bear, and a twig snapped near by. Oh bear! What Nazi-like aggressors you must have thought us as you watched our clumsy hands while you, with your great lumbering 400 pounds, had gathered the berries with your dexterous tongue. Dear bear!—forgive our trespassing—believe how gladly I'd share the raspberries in my garden with your kind as the symbol of Russian War Relief.

Two Local Firemen Join Coast Guard

The local fire department lost two of its most valued members this week, when W. Gordon Coutts and Henry L. Pomeroy enlisted in the Coast Guard. Both will serve in the fire prevention division of the service.

Coutts was a prominent athlete both at Punchard high school and Bates college, where he took part in track, hockey and football. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Coutts of Florence street, and is married to the former Miss Margaretta Hilton, daughter of Deputy Fire Chief and Mrs. Lester Hilton. They have one son, W. Gordon Coutts, Jr.

Pomeroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn D. Pomeroy of Foster's Pond, has served as driver of the ladder truck at the Central station for many years. He starred in athletics while attending Punchard high school.

Pomeroy will have the rating of boatswain's mate, first class, in the Coast Guard, and reports for duty Friday. Coutts reported at the Hotel Brunswick, Boston, yesterday morning. He will have a rating of boatswain's mate, second class.

Miss Marion L. Abbott will resume pianoforte teaching on Monday, September 14. Prospective pupils will find her studio at 7 Cedar road, telephone 555.—Adv't.

THE MEAT SITUATION

What good marketmen fear most is the rationing of meat products to the consumer. At the present time our meats come to us all cut up. We have to accept many cuts of beef New England people are not accustomed to using.

The best buys for the week-end are Corned Beef, Good Tender Lamb, and Streamline Roast Beef.

Bomb 'em with JUNK

Let's blast Japan—and Germany—and Italy—with the chain lightning of destruction that can be built from the scrap in our cellars, attics and garages, on our farms and in our places of business.

Scrap iron and steel, other metals, rubber and waste materials. It will all be used to make tanks, ships, planes and the fighting weapons our boys must have. It is needed at once.

Sell it to a Junk dealer—give it to a charity or collection agency—take it yourself to the nearest collection point—or consult the Local Salvage Committee... Summer Attendance Was Good At Addison

The summer attendance record at the Addison Gallery of American Art presents an encouraging picture of the role art is playing, and in all probability will continue to play as a source of recreation and spiritual refreshment in a time of war. Even with stringent gasoline rationing in effect, as many people visited the Addison Gallery during this past July and August as during the corresponding months of any of the last three years.

A series of three exhibitions was held at the Addison Gallery during the summer: The Worcester Group of painters, Painting in Essex County, which includes the summer artists' colonies of Gloucester and Rockport, and Painting by Providence Artists. The series taken as a whole gave a broad, general summary of what is being done in painting in eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Considered individually, the canvasses indicate that even under the shadow of war and the attendant pressure on civilians, the artist continues to carry on cultural traditions, to paint and to paint well. Some of the works included in these exhibitions were executed by men now in the armed forces; many were completed only shortly before they were shown.

The city's loss has been in many cases the small town's gain, for the Addison Gallery has now on loan several canvasses which are refugees from the more vulnerably situated centers. In addition, the entire second floor of the Gallery has been given over during the summer to showing the permanent collection. Included in this collection and now being shown for the first time is a framed finely worked embroidery on a painted silk background, depicting Mount Vernon, and executed in a young ladies' boarding school in 1812. Also shown are some American primitives and several interesting examples of early American portraiture.

If the summer activity of the Addison Gallery and the public response to it is at all indicative of what has been going on in other art centers in the United States, there is great reason for belief that interest in and support of the fine arts will not slacken during the tense days through which we are now living. Rather, there is hope that, even more than in the past will Americans realize what a source of inspiration and strength art can be, especially to a nation at war.

Freeman

Mr. Freeman was fortunate enough to be among the first 25 or 30 passengers off the boat, after routine questioning by FBI officials and Navy representatives. He flew to the coast immediately to rejoin his wife and three-year-old daughter, Margery Ellen, whom he had not seen in more than a year.

As to his treatment in Peiping, Mr. Freeman said that "although we were interned in the Embassy compounds from December 8 to June 13, when we left for Shanghai by rail, we were treated well. Strangely enough, we were permitted to keep our radios, even with the short wave, during the entire time, although at first the Japanese threatened to remove them.

"During the short time we were in Shanghai before taking passage, we were interned in a hotel and allowed out on passes during the day to shop or attend movies."

American citizens in Peiping, Mr. Freeman explained, were confined in walled cities, but the Embassy was restricted to two compounds. One of these compounds was composed of five American-type houses; the other, a block distant, of Chinese houses. The 18 Embassy officials and clerks interned there were permitted to go from one compound to the other.

"We were permitted to keep our Chinese servants, although things were not too easy for them, as they were subjected to close questioning. Our food was good and I, for one, didn't lose anything by the internment as I was studying the Mandarin language, and was able to devote eight to ten hours a day to my work."

"Our greatest thrill on the long voyage home," he continued, "was when we pulled into the harbor of Lourenco Marques, our first neutral port. There on a tramp steamer we saw the first American flag we had seen for many months, and although it was oily and worn, it brought a terrific cheer from those aboard the Gripsholm.

"Then we came upon 25 or 35 American and British ships, which appeared to be assembled as a convoy. The sailors on all of them swarmed to the side facing us, and every last ship in the group blew "V's" on their steam whistles. You never heard such a din, and this ovation was something we'll none of us ever forget. Neither will we forget the faces of the Japanese officers on the ship, with their stern, impassive countenances."

Going back a little further, he recalled that it was on the morning of December 8, while he was at breakfast, that he received his "manifesto" citing military conditions and the instructions that all arms must be turned over. At the time, he said, some 150 U. S. Marines had laid plans to leave December 12. The Marine compound was taken over at 1:30 that day, the Embassy chancery at 2:00.

"Meanwhile," he said, "we spent the entire morning burning all important documents and codes in seven furnaces. Copies, of course, were at the State Department.

"Our treatment was entirely different from that accorded Americans in Korea, Manchuria, Japan and particularly in Southern China, which we learned was particularly bad. There the Americans were not given enough food, and their Chinese friends had to throw it over the walls to them. In Hong King, Americans were interned in Stanley Camp, where there was a shortage of food. The set-up was like the Japanese internment camp at Santa Anita, but conditions were terrible."

The Gripsholm trip was quite uneventful, Mr. Freeman said.

"The only thing of interest we saw," he added, "was a burning derelict about five days out. It appeared to be a floating drydock or machine shop probably used by submarines. We came upon it, almost destroyed at dusk, and circled about to see if there were any survivors, but saw none. We were told that we stayed 250 miles off the coast of Africa, and kept clear of all convoys, as, if we got mixed up in one of these, it would be a good excuse for the Germans to torpedo us by mistake."

Mr. Freeman expects to be in California for perhaps two months, but has no idea where his next post will be or when he will receive it. "The United States looks pretty good to me," he says, "and I'd like to stay around for awhile."

Mrs. Robert Holland left Wednesday to join her husband, now stationed at the naval air base at Pensacola, Florida.

Tyer Award

"I am confident that your outstanding record will bring victory nearer by inspiring others to similar high achievement."

The award is a combination of the famous Navy "E," the Army "A" and the Army-Navy Star awards. The Tyer Rubber company is one of the first in this part of the country to be so honored, and one of the seventh group of plants country to be so honored.

About 80 percent of the unfilled orders at Tyer Rubber at the present time involve direct war production, and the plant currently employs from 850 to 900 workers. Several departments are running three shifts, while others are on a two and one-shift basis.

It is expected that a formal presentation ceremony of the Production flag will be made within a few weeks, by a representative of the War or Navy department, to the officials and employees of the company.

Special Sale Saturday —And A Good Buy, Too

The good folk of Andover who plan to buy their week-end provisions in town Saturday afternoon are cordially invited to bring home with them something which is much easier to carry, and lasts a great deal longer, than the customary meat and potatoes. The commodity—war stamps; the enterprising salespeople—the Legion auxiliary; the place—in front of the town house; the entertainment—music by the Legion Junior bugle and drum corps.

The Legion auxiliary, which has been selling war stamps at the local stores and banks during recent months, will sponsor the sale from 5:00 to 5:30 Saturday afternoon, and it is expected that other local patriotic organizations will organize similar programs later. The bugle and drum corps, fully uniformed, will render several selections during the course of the sale.
